1-2-3 Years Milestones
Article

How Parenting Can Lead to Your Baby’s Future Success

MAY 26, 2022

Every parent has big dreams for their child, and mothers want to make sure they give their children the best chance for success, health, and an amazing future.

One of the key elements to securing these things is creating a home environment that will allow your child to reach his or her full potential.

First, the good news: study after study has shown the impressive power of positive parenting and a supportive home environment. This means you’ve got a very powerful tool in determining your child’s future, which can be both comforting and overwhelming.

So, even though it may seem like outside influences are out of your control, keep in mind that what happens in the home is stronger than any of that. This is most true when your child is a toddler and a great deal of the brain development occurs. These early years help determine how the brain works. For example, by the time a child begins school, the brain is already wired for success, which will appear later on, in high school and beyond.

In the end, it’s actually quite simple. Parenting will win out against outside influences, such as TV or neighbors. As long as you love your child and make sure they get the proper care, your child should come out on top.

Reference:

http://raisingchildren.net.au/articles/child_development.html